

VICTORY AT SOISSONS MAY INSPIRE GERMANS TO A NEW OFFENSIVE

BRITISH OBSERVERS BELIEVE KAISER'S ARMY WILL MAKE ATTEMPT TO CROSS AISNE.

GAINS IN THE ARGONNE

Advance at Albert Follows Exchange of Artillery Fire—Russian Reinforcements Balk Invaders in Poland.

The German attack on the western front has shifted northward from Soissons, and yesterday there was a severe counter-attack on the region of Albert. Today's official German report says that the Germans, attacking with bayonet, drove the allies from positions northeast of Albert. In the Soissons region there is little activity. Several French trenches in the Argonne are said to have been captured. The official statement from Paris disputes the German claim of victories in the Argonne, saying that the attacks were repulsed. Several minor victories for the allies are reported, mostly in artillery engagements.

The official observer attached to the British army headquarters denies the official report from St. Omer stating that British troops had advanced one mile near La Bassée, capturing a German position.

In East Prussia, so far as the official communications show, there is no marked change. At the same time it is said that attacks by the Russians toward north Poland which are attempting to advance toward the West Prussian border, were repulsed.

Detailed description of the battle along the Aisne, supplementing the brief announcements of the French and German war offices show that the fighting raged in ferocity that which occurred along the Yser canal in Flanders where German forces attempted to break through to the English channel, although the number of men engaged was smaller. In the suburbs of Soissons the French had to hand to hand with the German forces in which the French were distinguished themselves in using their rifles as clubs after their bayonets had been broken in the pitiless struggle.

Advices from French sources say that the allied front in the position taken up after the retreat is stronger than ever.

London suggests that the Germans may follow their victory by inaugurating another forward movement. Berlin considers that the general offensive movement of the allies said to have been ordered a month ago by General Joffre, has been broken down.

Late reports from Petrograd emphasize the completeness of the victory said to have been won over a Turkish troops. On the other hand, according to the Russian war office, large numbers were killed and the survivors put to flight.

In Poland the Germans have again attacked the Russians west of Warsaw, but have been unable to break through the line of defense. In northern Poland the Russians continue to advance toward the Prussian border.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 18.—London is recalling that this is the 44th anniversary of the proclamation of William I as German emperor, and in the British capital it is expected that the day may bring news of the widespread German efforts to follow up with a still more important movement the successful advance which took place in the neighborhood of Soissons.

In London it is believed that the Germans have adopted what is virtually a defensive role to the west of Paris—some British observers are crediting that this has been done upon their superior Russian numbers and that the defensive tactics synchronized with the movement of many thousands of Teutonic troops from Poland to the French and Belgian battlefields.

Expect New Offensive. The fighting at Soissons, some British commentators declare to be the prelude of the anticipated new offensive upon a vigorous offensive, perhaps an attempt to cross the river Aisne. At Soissons the French failed to hold their positions on the northern bank of the river and for the Germans to attempt to gain the southern bank is regarded as a development to be expected.

As to further engagements in the region, it appears to be a fact that the German artillery on the northern bank of the Aisne commands all the approaches to the river and that it will have to be reckoned with.

In the eastern arena of the war the steady pressure which the arrival of the million of last year's levy entails, the Russians to exert upon the Germans, according to news dispatches reaching London, has been slowly pushing back the German line to the west of Warsaw.

Russian Capture Plock. News dispatches today reported the Russian recapture of Plock. This report has not been confirmed officially, but the Russians on Saturday captured the Skwa river a few miles below that point and may have been able to occupy the city. Russian forces already had reached Sierpce and Gornik, lying respectively directly north and south of the city.

The Russian defeat of the Turks in the claims of Petrograd are fully borne out, was so decisive that it may mark the close of the Ottoman attempt to invade Russia in the Caucasian regions. Turkish military operations will free enough of the Caucasian army to oppose effectively the Turkish forces which are approaching the frontier further eastward through Persia.

Deny British Attack. The observers who write the day by day report of events given out to the public are authority for the statement that the British forces did not recently capture certain German positions near La Bassée and make an advance for one mile. That they had done so was reported Jan. 16 in a dis-

GUTIERREZ LEAVES MEXICO CITY WITH A LARGE GARRISON

Old Ruler Takes 5,000 Troops With Him—Villa and Zapata Are Still Friends, Stores Closed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 18.—When Gen. Gutierrez left Mexico City yesterday morning, after the election of Garza, took with him most of the troops in the capital. State department advisers indicate that Gutierrez' present command is 5,000 strong. The state department is anxious to know whether Gutierrez has abandoned all claims to provisional presidency or has gone to Pachuca with part of his cabinet to set up a government in defiance of the conventionalist faction in Mexico City.

So far there has been no confirmation of reports that Villa and Zapata have broken off friendly relations. Villa is on his way from Augustas, where he has a formidable army assembled and is expected to enter the capital some time today.

A telegram to the state department dated Jan. 15, from Mexico City, stated that all business houses were closed and uncertainty existed as to what faction controlled the city. Another telegram sent at 6 p. m. the same day said the reason for the sudden departure of Gutierrez was still unknown.

The governor of the federal district has given assurances that there is no cause for alarm in the capital, adding that they had sufficient troops for preservation of order and anticipated attack on the city.

An undated telegram from Mazatlan, said that the cruiser Maryland and the Mexican gunboat La Paz had arrived at Mazatlan. Nine railroad bridges have been burned between Navajo and Mazatlan, the message said, and opposing forces were engaged at Navajo.

DEMOCRATS CAUCUS ON SHIPPING BILL

Action Taken at Conference Tonight Will Decide Fate of Ship Pur-chase Measure.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 18.—Chief interest in congress today centered on the outcome of tonight's caucus of senate democrats on the government ship purchase bill, for upon its action depends the fate of the measure.

Reinforced, they returned their ranks and attempted to turn the French position from the east side of the village. Three companies of riflemen were detached and charged. The shock was awful. Bayonets were fixed on all rifles and the dusky soldiers used the butts of their rifles. For a second time the Germans gave way.

During the night the German artillery fired incessantly in the neighborhood of Soissons, but at dawn of the 15th the artillery slackened and gave place to infantry fire.

Details of Battle. At 7 o'clock a battalion of the line occupying the farms of St. Paul were ordered to protect the advanced trenches, which were threatened by the German attacks. They charged and broke the German ranks, driving them as far as the Crouy railroad station and taking 100 prisoners. However, had they returned with the prisoners when they were assailed by fresh German forces, and for two hours St. Paul was subjected to a deadly and costly fire.

The tide of battle ebbed and flowed in the angle of a stable wall. Here dead German soldiers lay in rows that some stood upright, looking room to fail. The Germans, exhausted and discouraged at their lack of success, retired in a body to Crouy at noon.

The French returned to the mastery of the suburb of Soissons upon the right bank of the river and on the bridge head.

Blasphemy Given. London, Jan. 18.—The military observer at the British army headquarters in France, writing under date of Jan. 16, discussed the "physical and mental conditions" of the British troops and the Germans opposing them.

The writer after making due allowance for the probability that the German prisoners in many cases represent the somewhat inferior movement of Germany's forces, says that "there seems to be a difference in the state of the feeling of the German rank and file from that which existed some weeks ago."

"Some of the prisoners," the observer continues, "now realize that a German advance is out of the question, but there are few Germans who contemplate the possibility of an actual defeat and the invasion of their country."

"As regards physical well being," the British officer says, "it is doubtful if the Germans are so well off as are the British. The German medical arrangements also are inferior, many civilian physicians without surgical experience being used."

"In these points the German inferiority," the writer says, "is more than offset by the general efficiency of the fighting machines of the Germans. The excellence of staff work and high discipline and the thoroughness with which every military requirement has been provided for."

ENGLISH TARS DIE BATTLING IN GALE

Wheat Steamer Founders in Gale and Twenty-one of Twenty-seven of Crew Are Lost.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Jan. 18.—Twenty-one men of the crew of twenty-seven of the British steamer Penarth were drowned today off the Norfolk coast. The ship was carrying a cargo of maize sailing for Hull from the river Plate. She struck Shoerham shoal in a heavy gale and is a total wreck. Six survivors from the Penarth were picked up by trawler.

The Penarth was a small vessel of 1969 tons net. Another British steamer, the George Royle, also is believed to have been wrecked in the same locality. She left the Tyne for St. Nazaire, France. The flare of rocket signals was observed by the coast guard at Cromer but the steamer disappeared before it could be reached. The George Royle's small boats had come ashore. The date of the crew is not known. The steamer was of 1,522 tons net.

LOOSE LAW-MAKING METHODS RAPPED BY JUSTICE MARSHALL

Slackness of Legislature Makes Work For Courts Says Jurist in Opinion on Recount Statute.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—That the "recount" statute is not invalid, but that its scope is curtailed is indicated by the complete decision that has just been filed in the supreme court in the Hastings-McGovern election controversy. At the time that the mandate was issued requiring an immediate return, of the election results a memorandum was filed, but the opinion discussing the features of the law was not then announced. This opinion has just been filed by Justice R. D. Marshall. The court finds that all election recounts under the law must be made within a seventeen day period allowed for a county board of canvassers to complete its work. Personally Justice Marshall says that he believes "the court would be giving aid and comfort to the act of 1911 wholly void for uncertainty."

Reaps Law-Making Methods. Incidentally Justice Marshall also has views on recent methods employed in making laws. He points out that the "recount" statute is thrust into a complete statute making the result of the provision uncertain.

The method indicated of constructive work is of modern use so far as this state is concerned," says the opinion of Justice Marshall. To thrust an important provision with many details into an existing statutory system for dealing in the entirety with a basic part of state organization is an expression of being paid in the body of the new creation of inconsistencies between it and the latter and spirit of the context and without any repealing clause would naturally lead to such confusion of the law as to deal with. An abandonment of the method would promote certainty, lessen litigation growing out of ambiguities and incongruities in legislative enactments, and lessen danger of such intention failing or being more or less involved in obscurity.

Earlier in the opinion Justice Marshall points out that under the present system of making laws inconsistencies naturally arise. He said that it was for this reason to get a construction of uncertain laws that courts were created. He says that in recent years the necessity of regulation has increased and has been vitalized by a mass of legislation.

Put Burden on Courts. "The necessity for activity of that (court) power has grown very much in recent years," comments Justice Marshall, "as the apparent and real necessity for regulation of things has been vitalized by a rapidly increasing mass of legislation, and perhaps by the fact that the state is very dependent on individual study of their appearing on the statute books."

Although Justices Winslow and Barnes dissented at the time that the memorandum was filed and the order of mandamus to send in the returns were issued in the United States senate election controversy, neither has filed an opinion explaining the views of the minority of the court in this case. Justice Marshall's reasoning covers over twenty pages of typewritten text explaining the methods used in construing ambiguous statutes and the legislative intent in the case of the statute in question.

WILSON HAS CALL FROM J. P. MORGAN

Financier Believed to Have Conferred With President on Alaskan Railroad Proposition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 18.—J. P. Morgan was on President Wilson's list of callers today. The financier declined to say in advance what matters he wished to discuss with the president, but declared that the principal object of his mission here at this time was to confer with a meeting of the advisory council of the federal reserve, of which he is a member.

Problems in connection with the Alaskan railroad, with particular reference to the Copper River and North western railroad, which Mr. Morgan has offered to sell to the government for use as part of the proposed railroad to connect the Alaskan coast with the coal fields, was said to be one of the objects of Mr. Morgan's visit at the White House.

J. P. Morgan discussed the foreign exchange situation with President Wilson and informed the president that conditions are improving. He mentioned incidentally the credit of $12,000,000 established by the Russian government in the United States through Mr. Morgan's bank.

It was understood, Mr. Morgan informed the president, that the increase in American exports to Europe since the outbreak of the war and that as a result conditions were progressing favorably.

Morgan explained that his firm had not arranged for a direct loan of money to Russia, but that debts owing by Russia in this country for the purchase of supplies would be met by a sale of the Russian bonds.

Mr. Morgan also informed the president that the administration officials have no objection to this kind of arrangement.

POPE DISTRIBUTES AID

Supreme Pontiff Sends $4,000,000 to Bishops in Stricken Region—Estimate Property Loss at $60,000,000.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rome, Jan. 18.—Rescue work throughout the wilderness created by the earthquake Wednesday, continues slowly and under great difficulties. Each excavation served to verify earlier reports of the probable casualties through here and there despite the fact that five days have elapsed since the catastrophe, living victims are being released from their prisons of crumbling plaster and fallen timber.

Thousands of soldiers and civilians, including many members of the nobility, have gradually systematized the relief work, and are getting food and shelter supplies over the obstructive roads to stricken towns and villages. The relief work, however, overshadows the rescue effort.

The Pope, according to a Rome paper, has sent aid to all the bishops of the diocese in the earthquake zone. A fund of $4,000,000 has been received by the pontiff thus far. About 7,500 refugees, 2000 of them injured, have reached Rome to date; the probable property loss alone estimate gave with the loss of lives. No official figures are as yet available.

In dozens of villages citizens who escaped with their lives are still in great fear that new shocks will tumble their dwellings about their heads, and are camping out to avoid further danger. Gradually, however, the seismic disturbances are lessening, and some have been reported since yesterday.

TWO BUILDINGS BURN AT C. R. WRIGHT FARM

BELIEVE STABLE BARN WAS SET AFIRE BY PERSON SEEKING REVENGE.

THREE HORSES KILLED

Barn Leveled and Half of Tobacco Shed Destroyed—Department Saves Other Buildings.

Between three and four thousand dollars worth of property, including a horse stable, tobacco shed, three horses, one cow, about three thousand pounds of tobacco, a quantity of oats, and hay were consumed in a fire, thought to be incendiary, at the farm of Charles R. Wright, 1121 Milton avenue, just beyond the street which marks the city limits, early Sunday morning. Heroic efforts of the Janesville fire department saved the model house, another large stable and farm buildings which were endangered by the fire.

Mr. Wright returned from a neighboring farm, where he had been riding, after one o'clock Sunday morning. Twenty minutes later his wife, hearing the horses kicking, discovered the barn in flames, the west end of the structure being consumed by the blaze which spread with great rapidity to the second floor of the building. Mr. Wright hurried to rescue the three horses which were stalled near the door at the west end where the fire apparently started. The horse was intense and the fire pouring out of the frames so hot that it was impossible to get near the doors out of which thick black smoke poured in immense volumes.

A phone call warned the fire department and two hose carts, the motor truck and Chief Klein's wagon responded with a full brigade of fire fighters. The barn was enveloped in flames which brightened the sky, causing a number of neighbors to aid in the work of checking the fire and a number of city residents were attracted to the scene. A line of hose laid from the hydrant at the corner of Benton and Milton avenues, which was effective when high pressure was ordered from the water works company by Chief Klein. A box call was sent to bring the call men.

Before the hose was laid the fire had "gutted" the barn, and fanned by a brisk wind had spread to the long tobacco shed running north and south, endangering the other buildings in the rear. The firemen put a small nozzle on the hose, which increased the pressure and enabled the firemen to save the house, and stop the fire midway of the tobacco shed. No effort was made to save the barn. By playing the water up and down the shed one half of this structure was saved. The rest was so intense that the men could hardly stand within fifty feet of the burning buildings. The house, which is about fifty feet from the barn, was badly scorched.

Firemen worked until after five o'clock in the morning putting out the fire in the debris of the barn, which was a smoldering mass within an hour after the fire started. The remains of the three horses were found near the door, their bodies being horribly cooked and burned. The cow was tied near the back end of the barn. The hay, straw and two hundred and fifty bushels of oats, in the second story of the barn, was burned and the ashes and rubbish covered the ground to a depth of three feet. Two of the horses were highly prized by Mr. Wright, as they were a well matched team valued at over four hundred dollars.

Besides the animals, harnesses, a small amount of furniture, tobacco and farm tools were included in the loss. The three thousand pounds of tobacco, worth over three hundred dollars, which was the remainder of the crop, was a total loss, for what the fire did not burn the water worked, and the greater part of the tobacco that had been stored in the shed, which is over a hundred feet long, had been delivered.

Members of the Wright family and Fire Chief Klein, who made a cursory investigation, declared that the buildings were probably set afire, for there was no conceivable reason for the fire being accidental. The motive attributed to the fire, incendiary, has been declared by friends of the Wright family to be revenge, but Mr. Wright refused to discuss this point.

On the farm from the fire the "wrist" pin came loose in the cylinder of the motor truck and secured the cylinder wall. The truck will be out of service for several days' time, a new cylinder being necessary.

Mr. Wright said tribute to the work of the fire department, declaring that the house, other barn and sheds were saved by them. Although handicapped by the low pressure due to the long line of hose, the department prevented the other buildings being wiped out.

Shortly after two o'clock the members of the No. 3 station answered a call alarm to the barn's burning mills. The high pressure running through the water mains had caused the automatic alarm to sound through the "water hammer" in the pipes of the sprinkling system.

Saturday's Market.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Packers last week lowered the average price of hogs to $6.80, the lowest since March 1912, and lower than the high week last year in August. A run of 477,000 the last two weeks proved the undoing of the price range.

In sympathy with swine the average price of native beef cattle at Chicago dropped to $7.90 last week, standing the lowest in two years. $6.60 lower than the second week of 1910, August, which was the highest in 1914. Closing trade in lambs was at low prices in three months, and with the milder weather and demoralized conditions in the eastern mutton trade buyers are predicting a still lower range of prices. Fancy lambs are now around the $8.00 mark.

Hog Weight Heavier.

Saturday's hog market was best of the week and fewer went over unsold than on any previous day this month. A few fancy hogs, reaching $7, the same as previous Saturday. Average price at $6.82, however, was 6c below a week ago and $1.54 lower than year ago. Estimated average weight last week 225 lbs., against 221 previous week and 217 lbs. a year ago. Heavy packers were more plentiful. Quotations follow:

Bulk of sales ..... $6.70@6.90

Heavy butchers and ship ..... 6.80@6.95

Light butchers, 100@230 lbs ..... 6.80@7.00

Light bacon, 145@190 lbs ..... 6.85@6.95

Heavy packing, 200@400 lbs ..... 6.65@6.85

Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs ..... 6.65@6.85

Rough, heavy packing ..... 6.45@6.60

Poor to best pigs, 60@135 lbs ..... 5.25@6.80

Stags, 80 lbs. dockage per head ..... 6.00@6.60

Late Cattle Trade Lower.

Less than a dozen loads of cattle the same as Friday, or 10¢@35c lower than a week ago, with heavy steers of most. Some choice yearlings sold nearly steady. Top steers at $8.40 were 10c under a year ago and the average grade of beef steers at $7.50 stood 70¢ below a year ago. Quotations follow:

Choice to fancy steers ..... $7.90@9.40

Poor to good steers ..... 6.55@7.85

Yearling steers, fair to fancy ..... 6.75@9.25

Fat cows and heifers ..... 4.50@7.40

Canning cows and heifers ..... 3.10¢@4.50

Native bulls and stags ..... 4.50¢@7.40

Poor to fancy year calves ..... 7.50¢@10.50

Lamb Trade at Standstill.

There was no trade in sheep and lambs. About 5,000 were carried over from Friday, making a supply of 6,500. Salesmen refused the bids, which were mostly $1 lower than previous Saturday. Top lambs are quotable around $8 and best wethers at $6. Quotations follow:

Lambs, common to fancy ..... $6.90@8.00

Lambs, poor to good culls ..... 5.75¢@6.80

Yearlings, poor to best ..... 6.40¢@7.15

Wethers, poor to fancy ..... 5.50¢@6.00
Ewes, inferior to choice ..... 3.25¢@3.50
Bucks, poor to best ..... 3.50¢@4.00

decision unavailing for the purpose it was designed. Residents of Wisconsin know of La Follette's fight against the railroads. The majority of the citizens have seen him tear his hair, rip open the collar of his shirt, and though the words choked him, in denouncing the "great octopus." His fight has been a long one and even now he prepares to again assail them but the country as a whole is disgusted with this sort of blatant demagoguery. The New York Sun says, editorially, La Follette to the contrary notwithstanding.

"According to Senator La Follette the recent decision in the eastern rate case granting the railroads the relief of higher charges for freight service sealed the doom of the Interstate Commerce Commission as an authoritative instrument of government to regulate business. Let us see about this."

"Last year the total mileage of new railroads built in the United States was 1,551, the smallest addition since 1893. Always since the United States began to have railroads this country has annually made a larger increase of trackage than any other—until last year, when Canada built 1,978 miles. "In 1914, be it also noted, the increase of railroad equipment made a poor showing. Fewer passenger and freight cars were bought than in the preceding three years and a smaller number of locomotives was ordered than in any year since 1893."

"Despite Senator La Follette, who seems by the way to have been losing caste with his erstwhile radical constituency, Wisconsin, we are of the opinion that the Interstate Commerce Commission did not seal its own doom in the eastern rate case. Rather we are very much inclined to think that it saved itself to continue the commission government of business, which is not an experiment and hardly deserving as yet to be regarded as a success."

MAN WHO PENNED NOTE THAT STARTED WAR QUITS OFFICE

MEXICO AGAIN.

Mexico has another president. Since Diaz resigned (abdicated would be more appropriate) there have been numerous elections and first one and then another provisional president. The revolutions have been continuous. The fighting between this and that faction of such a mixed character that it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure it all out. While the loss of life has not been material, the loss of property, the confiscation of foreign capital and the destruction of the industries of our sister republic, has been most startling. Once Uncle Sam went so far as to send armed troops and battleships to Vera Cruz, at the expense of ten million dollars, mobilized its forces along the Mexican-United States border, and otherwise prepared for war, but the bluff did not work and the revolutions merged from one contest into another and so on like the fleas on a dog's flint. But just now they have another new president so we may expect a new revolution of a brand new order with armies fighting for a brand new cause. If we did not have the European war to trouble us this would be serious, but as it is like a side-show to a circus—merely a place to fill the gap before the big show starts.

ICY WALKS.

The city government started out with a good resolve the first of the winter to compel property-owners to clean their sidewalks and keep them clean. It was a noble resolve but it degenerated, as in former years, in mere words, and many a property-owner ignored the order as in the past. The walks were all right after they were tramped down, but the real trouble came when the rain of Saturday fell, turning them into icy pitfalls for the unwary and leaving them a menace to pedestrians. If the city can not compel the property-owners to keep their walks clean they should see to it that the sand wagons travel on them so as to make them safe for travel.

If President Wilson is wise he will spend the most of his time in Washington during the next two years. His Indianapolis speech has created all kinds of criticism, and put him and his party on the defensive. Not a very desirable position, when there is so little to defend. Better stay at home and saw wood. The people are familiar with what the republican party has done during the past thirty years, and they are fairly well enlightened on the record of the democratic party. Comparisons are sometimes odious.

The new sheriff, Dell Chamberlain, appears to have taken up the administration of the office he was elected to last November with a full understanding of the responsibilities of the position. He has an able assistant in the person of his turnkey, Mr. Wogan, who served under Sheriff Whipple, and between their combined efforts the county will be well policed and carefully guarded. Sheriff Chamberlain comes to Janesville with a record as an efficient police officer in Beloit and is well equipped for the office he holds.

Clever work by a clever thief has caused considerable inconvenience in several households in the city during the past few weeks. It is hard to capture the culprit who, although considered a novice at the game, is fast developing into a good second story worker, in the parlance of the underworld. If the property-owners would take the police into their confidence and give them prompt notification of the thefts, it might aid materially in the apprehension of the robber.

Not more laws, but less burdens, should be the slogan of the state legislature this winter. The people expressed their opinion in regard to new laws when they voted down the ten amendments and the tall went with in public sentiment since the election except to crystallize it and make it more emphatic. The governor understands the situation, and will not hesitate to recognize the will of the people.

The magnitude of the loss of life and property in Italy can be underestimated. It is a national calamity that has come to this nation and the world sorrows with it. Even the Pope left the Vatican and visited the stricken community, and the king, big man that he is, left everything to hurry to the aid of his people. The total losses grow day by day and the final figures have not been given as yet. The good people of Madison ought to be proud of a home paper which devotes a page to denouncing the new governor. The calibre of the writer, and his early training, is doubtless considered, yet that is poor consolation. Governor Philipp will survive, and his program for economy and business administration will be carried out, because the people are behind him. The Madison Journal is a muck-rake organ, and muck-raking is no longer popular.

Once more the cry is "On to Paris" on the part of the German invaders of La Belle France. Evidently the fighting has been most pronounced along the northern border line and the losses to the French material, but still even fifty-five miles for their goal is a long distance to travel. The union armies were lost nearer Richmond during the days of the Sixties before they finally reached their goal after four years of hard fighting.

The state university is recognized as one of the best schools in the country, but there should be a limit to the demand for philanthropy, on the part of the taxpayers, in supporting it. If the per capita cost of supporting the school is $500 per student, non-resident pupils should be required to pay more than 20 per cent of the cost.

The press of the state, with rare exception, is with Governor Philipp, and will support him loyally in his efforts to give the people a business administration. Life would not be worth living without some kickers, but it is always well to remember the source.

The income tax assessor is again getting in his steady work. If there is anything that the state and federal tax assessors do not want to know about your personal business it is not worth knowing.

Best Laxative For Children

"When your baby is cross and fretful instead of the happy, laughing little dear you are accustomed to, in all probability the digestion has become deranged and the bowels need attention. Give it a mild laxative, dispel the irritability and bring back the happy content of babyhood."

The very best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, is pleasant tasting and acts gently, but surely, without gripping or other distress. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Brest Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Obstacles Everywhere.

Life is like walking along a crowded street; there always seem to be fewer obstacles to getting along on the opposite pavement; and yet if one crosses over matters are rarely mended.—Thomas Huxley.

As the World Looks at It.

The man who suffers in silence may be heroic, but the man who "makes a holler" seems more sociable and is therefore more popular.

Your feet would ache if you walked from house to house of all real estate concerns in looking for the place where there are rooms for rent. A few minutes study of the Gazette West desirable places.

WALLACE COCHRANE DIES THIS MORNING

Former Sheriff of Rock County, and Later a Plumber, Expires of Paralysis at Home Today.

Wallace O. Cochrane, former sheriff of Rock County, and for the past seven years a master plumber, died at 1:40 o'clock at his home, 427 South Main street, at the age of sixty years. He had been ill for the past thirteen months, paralysis being the cause of his demise.

Mr. Cochrane was sheriff in Rock County in the years 1903 and 1904. Up to that time, since his arrival in Janesville, 28 years ago, he had held public office in Janesville, where his good work was highly appreciated. He was constable for a time.

The deceased was born August 1854, in Coldingham, Orange county, New York. He came to Rock County when 14 years old, moving to Janesville 26 years ago. He was married at Broadhead, December 9, 1880. After holding the office of sheriff, Mr. Cochrane mastered the plumbing trade, and for the past seven years has been a master plumber with his son, C. E. Cochrane.

He was a member of the Modern Woodmen, and also of the Union and I. O. O. F. No. 90, lodges. He leaves a wife, two children, and one brother, Lester, Mrs. Raymond Lee and C. E. Cochrane, both of this city, and James Cochrane, who resides between Afton and Beloit.

Funeral services will be held at the late home, 427 South Main street, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. The remains will be interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

GIVE FINE RECITAL SATURDAY EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw Please Apollo Club With Program for Violin and Piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, delighted the members of the Apollo club with their violin and piano recital Saturday evening at Library hall. This was the society's fourth concert of the present season.

Mrs. Shaw proved to be an artist of captivating personality and her late appreciation of her audience, Her interpretation of "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, was particularly pleasing and displayed to the best advantage her ability at technique and expression.

Mr. Shaw is a pianist of exceptional attainments and displayed a fine sense of tonal beauty in his playing of the Scherzo Valse by Moszkowski, in which he performed with much brilliancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are both graduates from the University of Chicago at Oberlin, Ohio, and completed their education in Germany, and while temporarily in this country, the Apollo club was fortunate enough to secure their services. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, there was not a large attendance.

"MY BABY GIRL IS A PICTURE OF HEALTH""Brought Up" on Father
John's Medicine, which
Cured Her of a Terrible
Cough and Built Her Up.

Her father in a recent letter said: "My little daughter is certainly a picture of health. She had a serious attack of lung trouble, with a terrible cough. After trying a doctor's medicine, which did very little good, we gave her Father John's Medicine, with the pleasing result that she was soon well, and we know that Father John's Medicine will keep her well." (Signed: H. O. Kroghstad, Lanesboro, Minn.)

Father John's Medicine is a safe medicine for children as well as older folks, because it contains no alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form, but strengthens and builds up the whole system because it is made of pure and wholesome nourishing ingredients.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express pre-paid.

FOR UNSIGHTLY
COMPLEXIONS
USE RESINOL

Pimples and blackheads disappear, unsightly complexions become clean, clear, and velvety, and hair health and beauty are promoted by the regular use of Resinol Soap and an occasional application of Resinol Ointment. These soothing, healing preparations do their work easily, quickly and at little cost, when even the most expensive cosmetics and complicated beauty treatments fail. Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved a wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by over nine million people. No other treatment for the skin has before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment (10¢) and Resinol Soap (10¢). For trial size, free, write to J. K. Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Avoid worthless substitutes offered by unscrupulous dealers.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr.
Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to keep your liver and bowels—there's nothing of having a "sallow" countenance—dark rings under your eyes—dark circles—look in your eyes—dark eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from the liver and bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels which he gave his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the laxative for calomel, are gentle in action, yet always effective.

By taking that exuberance of health that natural buoyancy which is enjoyed by everyone, by keeping up the liver and clearing the bowels of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10¢ and 25¢ boxes. All druggists.

The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Time is worth too much to waste in making a personal call on a druggist. A few minutes will give you the chance of the best medicine in the city. These are the best.

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THIS PAPER MADE WITH THE UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING CO.

He answered her questions about the situation at the "Master Key" as tactfully as he could; he realized that her nerves were badly shaken. He would trust to old Tom Kane to hold the fort in the mountains while he transacted the necessary business in San Francisco.

He directed the chauffeur to drive them through the shopping district, and while Ruth spent several hours in replenishing her wardrobe John sat in the taxi and studied things out. But he was continually seeing Wilkerson's dark face before him, and before they returned to the hotel he had determined to find out where he was and what he was doing.

While Ruth went to her room to dress for dinner John sat in the lobby and completed his plans. He did not observe a slender, quietly dressed young man with a very pale face, who sauntered in and out with an occasional trip to the cigar stand to light a fresh cigarette. It was Henry Pell.

The ex-thief had spent the day going from hotel to hotel, searching the registers. It was only at last that he went to the Maux. There he found the name "Ruth Gaydon" on the register and below it "John Dorr." This he reported to Wilkerson, who swore luridly, but emphasized the necessity of getting hold of the papers immediately.

"And I trust you to do it," he said meekly.

Pell, flushed with drugs, nodded briskly. "I'll get 'em, all right, Harry," he said, but did not add his latest thought, which was that with the papers once in his own possession, he could easily get much more from Wilkerson than the $200 he had promised.

"When will you have them?" Wilkerson went on impatiently.

Pell smiled faintly, but significantly. "I know your address," he remarked. "I'll deliver them there when I get them."

"But when?" growled the other. Pell flicked his cigarette stub into the gutter and whistled. "I never make dates ahead," he said quietly. "But it won't be long."

"Have you your plan all schemed out?"

Pell winked and moved off.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Fight on the Roof.

WILKERSON did not follow Pell. After all Pell was a dangerous customer and a man who worked secretly and in his own way. It was like Wilkerson to respect a fellow crook's special methods and mannerisms. He never interfered with an expert when that expert was working for him.

But he could not refrain from a furtive glance in the lobby of the hotel. He saw John Dorr there, still bearing the bruises and burns gained in the wreck of the auto truck. He stared at him, for there was something uncanny in seeing in the flesh the man he had thought to have killed. Then he went swiftly away, as Ruth came out of the elevator and joined Dorr.

At supper both Ruth and John were silent, not only from weariness, but because they had not settled things yet. Everett hadn't been seen nor any preparations made for the raising of the money needed to improve the "Master Key" mine. So by mutual consent they made a short meal of it. In the lobby they sat and talked a little while, but presently Ruth had to confess that she was worn out.

"Of course you are," said John reproachfully. "I'll take you right up and turn you over to your maid. A good night's rest will set you on your feet again."

"I shall dream of that horrible Chinaman," she murmured, shuddering. "Don't let that worry you," he said comfortingly. "I have a room right near yours, and if you want help I'll be there."

She thanked him, and together they entered the elevator and were lifted to their floor. In the hallway Ruth gravely shook hands and said "Good night." John tried to hold her little hand longer than was needful, but she shook her head and slipped away to her own room, just down a short hall.

He watched her open the door and turned to go to his own room when a thought struck him, and he called gently, "Ruth."

She came back quietly. "I'm so glad you called me," she said, with evident nervousness. "After all, it's ridiculous."

ly early to go to bed. Let's go for a ride some more."

They went out through Golden Gate park and after a brief stop on the bright beach came back into town by way of the Presidio.

Ruth was now quieted, and as they got out at the hotel she sighed happily.

"That was beautiful, John," she said.

At the desk the clerk handed John a note addressed in a crabbed hand. He tore it open, glanced at the contents and turned to Ruth.

"Old Tom Kane got here tonight!" he exclaimed. "He came while we were out and left this note for me."

Ruth's face lit up wonderfully.

"Where is he? Where is he?" she demanded. "I want to see him."

At her door he left her with a hasty "I'll be right in as soon as Tom comes, Ruth."

"All right!" she called back, and opened her door as he opened his own.

She paused on the threshold at the sight within. A tall man in a light mask was delving into the desk and rummaging among her papers and belongings. At the sight of her he quickly thrust a bundle of papers into his pocket and slipped toward the open window. Then Ruth understood and screamed for help.

John Dorr heard that call and in three bounds was in her room. She pointed to the open window, gasping: "That way! The thief! He stole the deeds!"

Without a word Dorr leaped to the window. It opened on a fire escape.

He peered down. No one. He looked up. A slight figure was mounting quickly and silently toward the roof.

Within another instant John had swung himself out on the ladder and was climbing rapidly after the unknown housebreaker. He paid no attention to Ruth's agonized cry after him: "John! John! Don't go after him! He'll hurt you!"

Helplessly she peered out of the window and saw the two figures going swiftly up toward the crest of the building. The seconds seemed hours as she watched. Then she saw John stumble and catch himself. That decided her. She picked up her skirts and stepped out on the platform herself. Then she gingerly swung herself out on the iron ladder and commenced to climb upward. She saw the thief reach the cornice and crawl over, then John. She struggled on up sobbingly, bruising her tender hands on the rusty rods. Once or twice she stopped and called: "John! John!"

There was no answer.

Then she realized that there was another on the ladder below her. She nearly lost her grip and fell. Surely it must be some accomplice of the thief! She hastened her way up the ladder, not daring to look down again.

At last she gained the cornice, where the ladder bent suddenly outward and she must perform almost hang suspended by her hands. But she managed to surmount this difficulty and stumbled forward on the roof of the hotel.

At first glance she saw no one. The roof was huge, broken here and there by skylights and chimneys and air-shafts. The shadows cast by the moon lay dark and strange across the tarry gravel.

"John! John!" she called softly.

Then again, in terror, she cried shrilly: "John! Oh, John!"

At that moment the figure of the masked man slipped from behind one of the chimneys and made for the fire escape. She realized that he was escaping. Where was John? She wondered. Could he be killed? She cried again, "John!"

She stood directly in the way of the man making for the ladder, and he paused at the sight of that eerie figure. The hesitation was fatal to his purpose. Dorr darted across the roof and grasped for him. With a swift turn the thief leaped over a skylight and commenced to run hither and thither, trying to evade John, who was not to be put off now that he had full sight of his quarry.

Ruth watched the chase with hands tensely clasped over her bosom. She could not stir from her position in the full moonlight, near the edge of the roof, nor did she move when Dorr finally caught his man and tripped him.

They fell together on the roof and rolled over and over, each trying to balk the other of a good hold. The fighting was furious, for Pell, still under the spell of drugs, was possessed of tremendous strength which even Dorr's hard muscles could not overcome.

Suddenly Ruth heard a familiar voice behind her saying, "I'll be damned if it ain't a fight!" She did not turn. Her eyes were fixed on the two writhing men.

Suddenly Pell started to roll over toward the edge of the roof, dragging John after him. This new danger appalled the girl. She watched with fascinated eyes.

John Dorr was well out of breath by this time and knew his man. It was a desperate struggle, for the thief was fighting for his freedom, and possibly his life. So Dorr settled down to hold him until his wild strength ebbed and he could handle him.

Henry Pell, on the other hand, knew precisely his plight and saw with exactness what would happen to him unless he escaped the huge arms that tied him down. Like all men of his class, he was averse to carrying weapons. Tonight he cursed himself for being unarmed. One shot, the fire escape and away! That being impossible, he planned another mode of getting away. In pursuance of it, he gradually worked himself nearer and nearer to the escape ladder. If he could once get his hands on those iron rails and swing himself over, his assailant must inevitably either let go or drop over.

Pell knew the steel strength of his own arms, practiced for years in just such tricks.

But the presence of a second man right in front of the ladder, as he perceived through his blurred eyes, rendered that hope out of the question. In desperate fury he kicked Dorr violently, tore one arm loose and drove his bony fist like a bullet into John's throat.

This forced Dorr for the moment to let him go. Pell rushed swiftly toward the ladder. He was halted by the sight of a perfectly level gun held in the hand of a man who evidently knew how to use it. He darted back, and John caught him again, this time with a well directed blow that felled him. A second later the thief was helpless, lying almost at the very edge of the roof. He was trapped and he knew it. There was but one thing to do, get rid of the evidence that he had been thieving. With a flint of his elbow, he managed to send the bundle of papers which had fallen out of his pocket over the coping and into the air. Then he choked up to Dorr.

"Are you mad?"

"Mad?" panted Dorr, letting his hold relax. At this moment Ruth came out of her stupor and ran up to them, followed up by an old man, who had also she faltered, "but all I saw was the papers."

"Well, we'll have a look—see for papers," responded the detective amiably.

When the officers had gone away Ruth turned and greeted the cook of the "Master Key" with unfeigned affection and delight.

"Tom, whatever brought you here?" she demanded at last.

Kane scratched his head and glanced hastily at John. Then he looked at Ruth, so fair in the moonlight, and said gently: "Why, Ruthie, I just thought I couldn't stay away from old San Francisco when I knew you was here. So I came right up."

"And the mine?"

come up the fire escape. Ruth cried out, "John!" then "Are you hurt, John?"

"Ruth!" he gasped. Then his eyes lit on the form behind her and he shouted, "Tom Kane!"

By this time the tumult had attracted attention in the hotel and a half dozen employees and the house detective emerged from the stairway to demand an explanation.

John started to explain, loosening his hold on the prostrate thief, when the latter with a quick twist of his lithe body freed himself and darted away. Dorr sped after him instantly.

The chase was a short one. John caught him near the edge of the roof, knicked him low, and they crashed down together. The thief put up a furious fight, managing to get on his feet again in spite of his captor's efforts to hold him till help came. Seeing that he was about to escape, him,

John made one last desperate grapple, caught him fairly and threw him heavily, but not upon the roof.

Unwittingly they had got to the very edge of the roof in their fight, and Pell was hung clean into the air, to fall swiftly to the street below.

"My God!" cried the detective, running up and peering over. "You have killed him!"

It took some time to make matters clear; still longer for the detective to assure himself of the truth of John's statements.

Meanwhile officers from the central station had arrived, called by the policeman on the beat. To them also Dorr had to tell his story.

"Well, the fellow was a crook all right," conceded the sergeant, "for he had plenty of cocaine on him and a little jimmy."

"It was an accident, my throwing him over the edge," John protested. "I was merely trying to prevent his escape."

Ruth was then interrogated, and after listening to her story the whole party went down to her room.

"We'd better see what he got, if anything," said the detective sergeant.

"He may have taken other things,"

SHATTERED BELGIAN ARMY STILL FIGHTS TO DEFEAT GERMANS

Only Sixty Thousand Left of Over
Two Hundred Thousand Men Who Checked Germans in Paris March.

(Correspondence Associated Press)
Purves, Wis., Jan. 18.—Sixty thousand worn soldiers along the Yser, where they checked the rush of the German invaders toward the Belgian army of two hundred and thirty thousand men under arms when Germany invaded Belgium, but one of King Albert's staff officers who has been with the army since the siege of Liege, asserts that the small Belgian force today is a far more efficient fighting force than that which met the first German attack.

He said to the Associated Press correspondent: "When we reached the Yser we were a beaten and disorganized army, almost to the point of absolute disorganization. Fighting for weeks without adequate support from our allies, and with most of our men believing that they had been left to their fate, the chances of our army seemed remote. That we did so was due to the highest and lowest factors in our civilization, the inspiration and activity of our king and the fighting spirit of our peasantry."

"The king's aristocratic regiment of guards is a thing of the past. They have been disbanded and their places taken by two regiments made up of Flemish peasants, who are being trained by active young officers in Belgium."

"When the critical situation along the Yser was realized the local peasantry seemed to remember the glory of their past, when their people were the terror of the invading Spaniards, and it needed only the actual leadership of the king to weld them into the fighting force you see here today. The king is commander of this army and during those nine terrible days in the trenches while the Germans buried their hosts at us, and we waited in vain for the expected support, the army was not only an inspiration to his officers and men, but he fought beside them, but he proved himself a capable military leader. Today the army is an efficient fighting force, too small of course, for we are unable to give our men leave from the trenches except for a few days. The English now enjoy, and this has caused a natural complaint, but in spite of this, as you can see for yourself, the spirits of the soldiers could not be better. These men are all veterans now and most of them are officers. The officers are picked for their work without regard to their former rank and many of the highest officers of the army have been relegated to posts where they can do no work, but where they cannot repeat any of the blunders which marked the first part of the war."

"We have no apologies to make for our artillery. The service was the really professional branch of the army into which officers went for pure love of their profession, and from Liege to the Yser they have proven themselves worthy of the cause for which they are fighting. Some idea of the value placed on our artillery is indicated by the fact that a Belgian captain of artillery was placed in command of two hundred French guns and directed them to fire continuously for thirty-six hours in the fiercest artillery duels of the campaign."

"Only second to our artillery are the regular cyclist corps and the volunteers for corps. The cyclists were well trained and the volunteers long have caused to remember their marksmanship. The automobile drivers volunteered from what might have been called the butterfly class of society youths, but they have proven as tough as the cars which they drive. They have endured incredible hardships and many of them occupy unmarked graves, the sole reward for some desperate scouting venture."

"The less said about the thousands existing at the beginning of the war the better, but the work of the men out there in the trenches has paid in full for any past shortcomings in this branch of the service. We only have a few square miles of this is left to artillery fire, but the same spirit which made the low countries famous as battle grounds in the Middle Ages seems to have received a tenacity in our army which will continue to hold West Flanders until the advance on Brussels begins."

STATE HIGHWAY LAW PROVES EXPENSIVE; TO ASK FOR REPEAL

Senator Bennett of Viroqua Proposes to Substitute John R. Jones Plan for Present State Aid System.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—The repeal of the state highway law, under which upwards of 3,000 miles of roads and nearly 700 bridges have been built in the past three years, is being asked of the legislature by Senator J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua, Vernon county. He says that it is the most unpopular and costly law in the history of Wisconsin and adds that the people of Wisconsin are equally dissatisfied with the operation of a similar law in that state.

"Supervisors Ask Repeal." "County board after county board has petitioned for repeal of the state highway law," said Senator Bennett today, "and I intend to ask for its repeal. It is extravagant, wasteful and a burden on the people. It is a highway building system which leaves to the county board to determine whether the local road taxes in a county shall be paid in money or labor. This latter is a matter that should be left to the people of the town. If they want to pay their taxes in money let them vote to do so, but don't let the county board tell the towns what to do. The money for the roads that it has ever had in the last ten years and all through these two laws which I have specified."

While Senator Bennett would repeal the present system he will offer a substitute, which has become known in Wisconsin as the John R. Jones plan. This provides that there shall be a county highway system. Under the bill which Senator Bennett will present as a substitute for the present plan the state will give no aid to road building. Every county will be required to raise a certain amount of money on the basis of the assessed valuation of the county. This money will be expended for road building within the county under a county highway commissioner elected by the county board. The towns may build and their local roads as at present and farmers should be permitted to work their taxes out by labor, if the people of the town so desire.

"If the people of the state desire to build roads let them do so, but let them do it as an independent proposition," continued Senator Bennett. "If the people of the state desire to have a state highway system, let it be operated entirely independent of the county or town system. Then if they want to build a road from Milwaukee to Madison or from Madison to La Crosse it can be done as an independent proposition. The state can vote money for this proposition, but it will not fall upon the counties as at present."

Under the present state highway law if the town votes a certain amount of money for state highway purposes, the county and state must each vote an equal amount. Since this system requires all towns to contribute to bear their proportional share, on the basis of valuation of property, the towns that vote no state road tax must share in the cost of the road building in other sections of the state. This plan is to the interests of the towns to vote aid.

Highway Tax Increases. In a statement issued recently by the state highway department, the increase of state highway tax in January, 1914, was almost exactly one-fourth of the total increase in state taxes. It was necessary for the state to vote $420,000 for road work; in 1913 the amount paid by the state was $280,000 and the amount in 1914 was $1,200,000. Since the towns and counties have previously voted an equal amount each, the amount of money spent on highway work last year was approximately $450,000.

Gov. Philip in his message to the legislature suggested that some change in the state highway law would be necessary. He declared that the amount of money expended was excessive and burdened the people. He also suggested that the state should give an amount that would be less than one-third. He also suggested that some method should be devised for keeping these roads in repair.

"HOW LONG WILL PEACE
LAST WHEN WAR ENDS?"
ASKS PRIME MINISTER.
Wellington, New Zealand, Jan. 18.—Andrew Fisher, prime minister of Australia, in addressing a gathering of politicians and newspapermen soon after his arrival here, said there was a more important question than how long the war will last, and that is, how long will peace last after the war.

Mr. Fisher was discussing the necessity of New Zealand and Australia joining hands in a common effort to the protection of British interests in this section of the world. "The question of the defence of the Pacific," he remarked, "is a matter of urgent necessity. Some people think that after the end of the war there will be peace for many years. But this is too uncertain a foundation on which to build for permanence and security."

"Nor should we depend upon the mother country for our defense, now that our strength enables us to act for our own behalf. The national development of Australia and New Zealand will be stimulated by relying on their own resources by maintaining a naval force which is a direct part of the British Navy, but under local executive control."

"The day has come when self-respect should persuade us to abandon our policy of reliance upon the British taxpayer."

PAIN GONE! RUB SORE, RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS

RUB PAIN AWAY WITH A SMALL
TRIAL BOTTLE OF OLD
"ST. JACOB'S OIL."

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating St. Jacob's Oil right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacob's Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment, you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

WHEN CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! Your tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters! Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

BUTTERMAKERS TIE FOR STATE HONORS

Agricultural School Makes Announcement.—Elkhorn Man is Mentioned in Contest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—L. L. Bolstad, Elkhorn, and Chris Christensen, Neillsville, tied for first place in the butter scoring contest of the dairy department of the college of agriculture, the results of which were announced by E. Lee, chairman of the scoring board, stated that the scoring contest for the month of February would be held in connection with the state convention and that the butter produced would reach Fond du Lac not later than January 20.

A total number of 106 regular and irregular exhibits of butter were received in Madison for the January scoring. The highest number of entries ever received for a winter month. Those who received a score of 95 or over are: L. L. Bolstad, Elkhorn; Thomas J. Neillsville; Chris Christensen, Neillsville; R. J. Eise, Helenville; Herman Hartwig, Deerpfield; A. Doskoff, Waterloo; Carl Jorgenson, Rose Lawn; P. Kristensen, Cushing; Harry Nichols, Elkhorn; Lauritz Olsen, West De Pere; H. H. Whiting, Johnson Creek; and F. A. Werner, Waterloo.

FRENCH ARE INDIGNANT THAT PRINCE SIXTUS FIGHTS WITH AUSTRILIANS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.)
Paris, Jan. 18.—Reports that the prince of Parma, brother-in-law to the Australian heir apparent, have been fighting in the Austrian armies, have caused great indignation in French royalist circles. The Princes of the House of Orleans, the Bourbon family, descendants of Louis XIII, of France, number seven.

It is asserted that they have never served in the Australian army during the present war. The prince, Prince Sixtus, and Xavier, went on the front with the hostilities to the recruiting office at Blois and asked to be enlisted in the French army. Their services being declined because of the law preventing members of French royalty from serving in the army, they went to their cousin the King of Belgium, to be enrolled with the Belgians.

During the journey Prince Sixtus was injured in an automobile accident at Calais and lay for two days without consciousness.

King Albert came to see the injured prince and said, to console him for his enforced inactivity, "My dear cousin, you must consider yourself as having been wounded on active service." As the result of this Prince Sixtus has returned to Calais, his estate in Italy. He will not be fully recovered from his injuries for two months, but he has expressed resolution to return in February to take up a position in the French army, which his cousin, King Albert, is arranging for him to have. Those of his brothers who are old enough to do so, it is said, will follow his example.

RUSSIANS USE DOG CARTS TO CARRY WOUNDED FROM THE MOUNTAINOUS REGIONS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.)
Petrograd, Jan. 18.—In order to get their wounded safely out of the mountainous regions where the snow is knee-high, the Russians have developed a new transport system, employing high two-wheeled dog-carts, very lightly constructed, with a room enough for two wounded men, and a driver to pull them from falling out. On return, the army supplies are carried to the front.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Jan. 16.—Mrs. H. C. Taylor and her nephew, Harold of Glyndon, Iowa, went to Beloit on Friday for a few days' visit with relatives there.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Alfred Abrahamson and Miss Lena Grangard which event will occur on Wednesday, January 27. Mr. Abrahamson has for several years been in the employ of Andrew Thompson in the windmill and plumbing business. The lady resides with her parents in the town of Spring Valley. The basketball team from Orfordville passed through the village on their homeward trip from Edgerton, where they met and were defeated by the team of that city in a spirited contest on Friday evening. The disappointment of the defeat of the evening before, seemed to have disappeared by Saturday morning and the fellows were in "fine fettle."

Substitute mail carrier, Nelson, served the route on Monday. Carrier Hamilton serving as one of the pallbearers at the funeral of the late M. O. Rime.

Principal Ralph Barker has tendered his resignation to the school board, to take effect in the near future. He intends to pursue his studies at the Normal.

SPURN EVIL SAYS WEBB IN ADDRESS

Episcopal Bishop Exemplifies City of Troy to the Over Confident City of Talk at Y. M. C. A.

Warning men to keep their eyes open, and to think first in all matters of importance, especially to keep all evil outside of their systems, Right Rev. William Walter Webb, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Milwaukee, gave a most instructive message Sunday afternoon at the men's meeting, taking for his text the 13th verse of the 16th chapter of the book of Corinthians. "Watch ye stand fast in the faith, you like men, be strong."

Bishop Webb opened his discourse on the great war in Europe today by emphasizing the paramount importance of watchfulness on the part of the belligerent countries. He uttered the stirring example of the city of Troy, and how easily that city was taken.

"Many of you will remember the story, while many may not. The old wooden horse was responsible for the capture of the city. Believing that the enemy was away from the walls around the city, the people opened the doors and brought the large wooden horse, which was on the outside inside the walls. In the midst of much joy, the people of the city of Troy rejoiced that their city had not been taken or sieged. As an offering to Mercury they all became intoxicated, knowing not that the horse had ears and eyes, and was wide open. The men of the enemy, who had been placed inside of the horse for the purpose of watching, had succeeded in taking the city from the inside, after the brave attempts had been made from the outside."

"From this example, be careful that bad stories do not get inside your system, for you might easily be taken by the enemy. You undoubtedly have despised in the past the stories that pass through you, or bound on. Like the enemy who took the city, you men should keep your eyes and ears open, and expect some one else with you. That is, I mean, religion. We all must have something to stand for. Religion, I say, is the biggest thing in the world. What a man stands for is what he is. Then why not religion be a big thing in a man's life. I almost say that it is better to commit a definite or positive sin than to be a person who cannot be gotten hold of, who is indifferent, who is too weak to see the better things."

"War is not a failure of Christianity, which I have heard so many say. War is an evidence of Christianity. Christianity is alive in the world, more alive than ever. Remember the little baby who was born in the manger at Bethlehem. Today we find many homes for relief to take care of the suffering and distressed. These homes were all brought about through the birth of the Christ. Let's be positive in our thinking: 'quit ye like men, be strong.'"

PRIEST RECEIVES MEDAL FOR BRAVERY IN FIELD IN HEARING CONFESSIONS.

(Correspondence of The A. P.)
Petrograd, Jan. 18.—Father Shishterbakov, a Russian priest, has received the order of St. Vladimir third degree for his bravery in recovering confession and announcing the dying priest for the field of battle, under fire. This priest is the only man in Russia, not an army officer, who wears a St. George decoration. This was in Manchuria for taking command of the regiment when all the officers had fallen and leading it, cross in hand, in clearing the Japanese. Father Shishterbakov is now in the order of St. Anne third degree for materially assisting in his troops' victory in another battle.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" IS THE ONLY
REAL STOMACH REGULATOR KNOWN.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just what makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and undigested waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick or upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Jan. 18, 1875—Judge Dunwiddle of Monroe, Green county, this state, has invented an instrument with which to ventilate grain in bulk and fruit in boxes and barrels. It seems to be a very useful invention, something that our millers and fruit dealers will find exceedingly useful.
The Poultry Exhibition will open in the city tomorrow, in Mitchell's block, east of Milwaukee street. The rooms have been fitted up in great style and already a number of large and beautiful birds have been put into the room. To see curiosities of the feathered tribe we invite our citizens to take a look at the show.

Burr Robbin's fine collection of birds will also be there.
They begin to manufacture shoes in the shoe factory today. When running on fast time they will turn out five hundred completed pairs per day.
Whitewashing is still going on in the cotton factory building.
The bell on Engine House No. 2, fell to pieces Saturday. So note it be.
Three inches of snow fell last night for which sleigh riders might be thankful.
Someone should see that the opera house is thoroughly warmed for tomorrow evening; and half a scuttle of coal will not do it either.

He Couldn't Lose.

There was no sound except the faint and regular tick of a watch; otherwise silence and gloom pervaded the elegantly furnished drawing room. In one chair sat a beautiful girl, her lips tightly closed, her eyes staring straight before her and her every muscle tense with a powerful effort of self control. In another sat a young man whose face expressed seriousness, but confidence. In his hand he held an open watch, which he observed closely, only raising his eyes now and then to glance at the beautiful girl who seemed to be in such agony. Five seconds, ten, fifteen, twenty seconds passed. The position of neither the young man nor beautiful girl had changed. Suddenly her eyes gleamed with a wild light, her bosom heaved, she clasped her hands convulsively and "I must speak!" burst from her bloodless lips. "Twenty-four seconds," said the young man as he closed the watch and put it back into his pocket. "You lose the caramels by six seconds exactly." He had bet on a sure thing, but she won not.

Dancing in the Old Days.

Dancing in the woods was the old manner in the classic times, and mythology tells of the worship thus paid by the pagans to the gods. The poets sang of it. The priests of Mars were the principal dancers in the sacred rites to that deity. There was also the religious dancing alluded to in the Old Testament, as where David danced before the ark to express his joy and that of his people, and there were the dances of the Druids round the altars and the mysterious stones. Never, perhaps, in the history of the world was dancing more popular than it is today—not even in the pleasant times when in England, Ireland and France the people danced on the green. Oliver Goldsmith, traveling on foot, paid his way by playing for the dancers on his fute.—Baltimore News.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Willie Rock and Maude Fulton, who will be seen in that record-breaking song and dance review "The Candy Shop" at the Myers Theatre tonight, have been musical comedy stars for a long time and who have the distinction of being top liners on the vaudeville stage for the past ten years, which is a guarantee to the theatre-going public that their offering, "The Candy Shop," is a first class musical treat in every respect. One of the largest traveling aggregations now before the public, sixty-five or more people and two baggage cars.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

It is doubtful if there has ever been or ever will be written a musical comedy which will enjoy the long life of popularity promised "The Prince of Pilsen." Frank Fixley and Gustav Lueders' delightful masterpiece, "The Prince of Pilsen," is an all star revival of it which is sure to be accorded receptions of unusual interest. The organization is announced for an early appearance in this city.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

McIntyre and Heath, will be the attraction at Myers Theatre, Monday evening, January 19th, in John Cort's elaborate revival of George V. Hebert and Gean Schwartz' highly successful musical comedy, "The Ham Tree." The assertion that James McIntyre is today one of the best known entertainers of the American stage would probably meet with the chorus of inquiry as to whom Mr. McIntyre might be. The inquirers would include many who know them—selves well informed. But the added assertion, given to historical accuracy as to setinating transcript of the temperamental work-and-play existence of the Parisian artists' colony. Famous American artists who viewed the production during its run at the new Casino recalled their student days in Paris so vividly that they almost believed themselves once more on the banks of the Seine. "The Naked Truth" will be shown at Myers Theatre for two days commencing Wednesday, January 20th.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Cabiria," the Greatest Motion Picture Made.

"Cabiria," the great motion picture which is to be presented at the Apollo Theatre Wednesday, is unique in many respects.

"Cabiria," as has been frequently said, is the last word in motion picture art. It is the greatest motion picture ever made—the greatest in respect of magnitude and the amount of money devoted to its production. It took more than a year to make and cost $250,000.00. The Italia Company, who produced this picture, has been in the business for over ten years. Its policy has always been to produce the best in motion picture art. In outlining this great work it sought the services of the most eminent Italian author, Gabriele D'Annunzio, for the scenario or story. Then, having chosen its company as types, it rehearsed them many months in their respective parts.

The buildings, temples and other structures used in the film were especially built and erected for the purpose of the picture. The eruption scene is a masterpiece of realism. Every scene is well informed. But the added assertion, given to historical accuracy as to set-that Thomas Kurton Heath belongs in exactly the same category, and the familiar association of names brings a nod of recognition from the reader and a smile in remembrance of McIntyre and Heath. Beginning under the white circus tents about forty years ago, McIntyre and Heath have passed successfully through vaudeville and into musical comedy, and the echo of mirth has always been resounding behind them as they passed on.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Before beginning the production of George Klein's expert photo-drama, "The Naked Truth," the "Cine" producers spent months in an exhaustive study of life in the famous Quarter of Paris in order to be able to produce the proper atmosphere of bohemianism when it came to the actual making of the picture. As a result of their labors they have succeeded in giving the public an absolutely accurate and tremendously fastings and costumes. Judging from the advance seat sale there will hardly be standing room at either the matinee or evening performance.

AT THE APOLLO.

The Man From Home. Charles Richman, the popular dramatic star will be seen at the Apollo today in the Liebler Company's noted play by Booth Tarkington, "The Man From Home." It is a Paramount picture and the work of the Jesse L. Lasky studios, and of course is a beautiful piece of photography and a most interestingly told story.

"The Tra-Sight Road." Clyde Fitch's powerful drama "The Straight Road" will be presented at the Apollo Tuesday afternoon and evening by Daniel Frohman and Famous Players. Gladys Hanson with a strong supporting cast, presents a splendid portrayal of this

Whitewater News

ELLEN LEWIS WEDS JUSTIN McCOMB SATURDAY.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Whitewater, Jan. 18.—The marriage of Justin Alward McComb and Miss Ellen Lewis took place Saturday afternoon at the Congregational church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. L. R. Howard in the presence of the two sisters of the bride, Miss Edith Lewis, of Whitewater and Miss Margaret Lewis, of La Crosse. A luncheon was served at 102 South Prairie street, with the elder sister before going to the farmer of sterling character and has many friends in and around Whitewater. He takes for his bride one of Whitewater's most esteemed young ladies. For the past year Miss Lewis has been teaching at the Grange store in Evansville, until the holidays, and since that time has been at the home of her brother, E. H. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. McComb left on the 5:30 train and after March first will be at home to their friends at the Edgemoor farm, Milton, Wis.

Miss Martha Taylor spent Friday and Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Dornhorn in Janesville.

Mr. A. A. Coburn is visiting friends in Janesville for a few days. Miss Bertha Cook, of Edgerton, was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Stephens.

Carroll College of Waukesha played Saturday night and won by a score of 25 to 17.

Miss Belle Cleland is confined to her bed, the results of a fall she received Saturday from stepping on a slippery board near the back door of her house.

Miss Margaret Lewis, who teaches in La Crosse, and who came Saturday to attend the wedding of her relatives here.

The teachers and ex-teachers of the High School gave a luncheon Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Orlaf Johnson, who was recently married. They presented her with a beautiful picture, Miss Jessie Hudson, of Milwaukee, and Nellie Hudson, of Janesville, former teachers, were here to attend.

A. E. McLane and son, William Farham, Edg. Waters and Donald Cors attended the Poultry Show at Janesville last week and brought home a nice lot of blue ribbons. Donald Cors, twelve years old, Whitewater's youngest fancier, was proud of his scores. He got three firsts on bantams, one first on another pair of pigeons. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cors, and his brother were down to Janesville with him Saturday.

The following from out of town were here to attend the funeral of Charles W. Rockwell, which was held at the M. E. Church yesterday afternoon: Roy B. Hayes, of Lexington, Conn., nephew of Mrs. Rockwell; Eugene Rockwell, a brother, and son Charles Rockwell, of Keosauha, and a bunk mate of Mr. Rockwell while in the army, William Palmer, and wife, of Milwaukee. Mr. Rockwell served in Captain Redington's Company of the 28th Wisconsin. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. J. Andrews, and Rev. E. C. Barnard of the Grand Army, and was very largely attended. To Mason's attend the funeral in a body and had charge of the burial service.

The funeral of Mrs. Amelia Deu-gate was Sunday afternoon, with burial in the Glendale cemetery. The following from away were here to attend the funeral, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ash and Frank Ash, of Edgerton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin and Mrs. John T. Le and daughter, Florence, of Milwaukee; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Cranston, of Beloit. Clara Smith and Florence Niquet spent Saturday in Janesville.

Miss Irene Pester and Miss Lilah Rockwell visited Saturday and Sunday with friends in Janesville. P. L. Gunnison was in Edgerton on business Saturday. A conference of the Methodist and Congregational people was held last evening at the M. E. Church. Miss Frances Patterson, of Chicago, gave a lecture on "China, old and new," which was very instructive. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views, showing what China had been, what improvements had been made and what is yet to be done in that country. Music was furnished by the M. E. choir.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

The Congressman. In former years the congressman cared for his country's needs. By sending out to common folk some fancy garden seeds. He loaded aboard in Washington and had a bully time for Jerry. But now, the way they're treating him is nothing but a crime.

No longer does he pose and strut. And talk in language grand. The good old days have passed away, He's working, understand. That teacher from New Jersey has him walking chalk for fair. And when the whistle blows each day The statesman must be there.

Vacations have gone out of style, He's busy with his books. The time has passed when congressmen could get by on their looks. The period is almost here, We're very much afraid. When congressmen will have to earn At least half what they're paid.

The Duck. A little schoolgirl in Michigan has written the following essay on the duck.

The duck is a low heavyset bird he is a mighty poor singer having a coarse voice caused by getting so many frogs in his neck. He likes the water and carries a toy balloon in his stomach. Keep from sinking the duck has only two legs and they are set so far back on his running gear by nature that they come pretty near missing his body some ducks when they get big curls in their tails are called drakes and don't have to set or hatch but just loaf and go swimming and eat everything in sight. If I were to be a duck I would rather be a drake (less) than a set, close together the web skin put them in a por way of scratching but they have a wide bill they use it for a shade net upon them. A boat from they bounce and bump a boat from side to side if you scare them—they will flap there wing and try to make a pass at slings.

It's a Mortal Clinch. That the fellow who calls you up at 2 A. M. on the telephone by mistake, is going to call you down. He is going to say: "What? Ain't this six-eleven-sixty-six? Well, why in blazes ain't it?"

That the pie that comes home from the grocery is going to have a cracker top and part of the edge peeled off.

That the telephone is going to be busy for half an hour when you want to get your wife in a hurry.

That the fellow is going to marry the girl before you get to the end of the book.

That the good things on the quick lunch bill of fare are going to be gone before you get to the end of the book.

That your automobile is going to balk just as soon as you pick up someone to whom you have been praising your car all the year.

That the lady with a large hat will get peevish at you when she runs into you and twists it out of shape.

The Correspondence School. A young man connected with our office was pounding feverishly on his typewriter. He was in exuberant spirits and highly excited. We asked him what he was going and he said he was writing his correspondence school yell. There was nobody to yell it with so all of the members sit down and write it at the same hour each evening. Here is the yell:

"Poo-hoo, Hoo-rah, Poo-hoo, Yale. All I know I learned by mail."

But if the German right's left was right before the allies' left, left is left right where the right was right before he left's right, left the right's left, isn't that right?

A number of good country places are advertised for rent in this issue of the Gazette. Turn to the Want Ad page now.

THE WHOLE BODY NEEDS PURE BLOOD

The bones, the muscles, and all the organs of the body depend for their strength and tone and healthy action on pure blood.

Blood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. It is positively unequalled in the treatment of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, that loss of no other medicine like it. Be sure it is sold by all druggists.

STATE TO CERTIFY INSURANCE CLAIMS

Supreme Court Says Wisconsin Insurance Business on Public Property is Mutual Transaction.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—That in establishing the state insurance fund for insuring public buildings and property of the state, counties, cities, villages and school districts, the legislature intended that this should be a mutual insurance business and that the amount payable in case of losses is limited to the insurance as certified by the commissioner of insurance, is the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court in an opinion rendered and filed by Justice Siebeck. The case arose on the application of the board of normal regents for a writ of mandamus to compel Commissioner of Insurance Herman L. Ekern to certify an additional amount claimed by the normal regents over the $94,500 certified by the commissioner on account of the burning of the Superior Normal school in March, 1914.

The decision in effect approves the method in which the insurance fund has been managed as a mutual fund in the same manner as the business of the insurance companies is managed, and sets at rest any question as to the amount to be paid out of the fund in case of loss.

"This decision is of particular interest because of the large saving which the state has effected through this fund and because both Michigan and Minnesota adopted the same plan for state property two years ago and Minnesota is now considering extending its state insurance to all public property, as in Wisconsin," said Commissioner of Insurance Herman L. Ekern, commenting upon the decision and the recommendation of Governor Emanuel L. Philipp that the fund be abolished.

EXPECTS TO AMEND COMMITMENT LAW

Senator Huber of Stoughton Will Propose Several Important Changes in His Pet Measure.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—Senator H. A. Huber of Stoughton, is preparing amendments to a law enacted at the last session providing that the county shall provide work for persons sent to the county jail and that the earnings shall be turned over to those dependent upon them. It intends to offer a bill which will make it possible to work persons sent to jail for violations of city ordinances. This, he believes, will make the law still more popular.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person is troubled with catarrh in some form. Science has shown that nasal catarrh indicates a weakened condition of the body; that the secretion of the mucous membranes are quickly affected, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.
